

October 30 1930
Augwayits Thursday Night

Dearest Ole Frien', R.F.T. and Eleanor Barrows:

The Trustees have met deliberated and in a friendly and serious way announced the appointment as of January 1st 1931 and congratulated me. So that phase of things is finally at an end: and I find myself responsible for diminishing the hours days and years of suffering and incapacity of I wonder how many people who may through the aid of R.F.T. money initially, be eventually affected by discoveries and improvements ^{of the real people} in the practice of medicine and the prevention of disease.

A letter from you came just after I was told and my heart welled up in gratitude to whatever made you tell me what you thought there was of value that I might have to offer. I didn't need then congratulations; I needed the confidence of you who know me and love me, and there is nothing I could write or say that would explain how comforting and reassuring you were to me at that instant and how long that encouragement is going to be made to warm me and make you feel warm to me in an almost solemn as well as dearly intimate way. Dearest!

Moreover the Trustees have most auspiciously opened the question of whether it wouldn't be preferable to move the office out of New York — perhaps to a suburb in Westchester County, but at least out of down-town New York and as I think probably more likely to a location outside the city of N.Y. but not too far from it. A discussion was held on it this morning and a committee of Jerome Green, Asson Phelps Stokes and R.B. Rosdick has been appointed to report to the Trustees, probably at the December Meeting on the desirability and feasibility of such a move. I spoke a piece on the subject, told 'em the location and nature of the office work as it is affected by the present location was the great foreboding I felt, and was quite direct and i.e. that we are buyers simple about it. Used your buyer-versus-seller phraseology in referring to our present situation, with an eye to hooking Rosenwald and was delighted to have him swallow the thing bait hook and sinker and tell the assembled company that both he and his buying staff were $\frac{1}{2}$ an hour away from the heart of Chicago and it was a Godsend so to be. That wasn't so simple maybe - but I was quite simple in telling them I was worried by the conditions of work as I had seen it in the past ten years in New York. I can hardly imagine you not being cheered by this news. It is immensely heartening in spite of Applequist's fear "Well does it mean we'd go to such a small place that Mrs Haegg would say as she looked out the window 'There's Applequist coming home drunk again' ---- please give my apologies to Mrs Haegg I'm not as sure that I won't get drunk as I am that she wouldn't say it." But, in my opinion, these are automobiles - and I'd as soon have the Foundation out of town and some obligatory meetings with ^{the} ~~them~~ staff as any other Kee-munity racket, or obligations.

The salary question hasn't come up but probably will before I leave for France. I'm going to hold out for $15,000 when it does, in case they offer anything lower; with the alternative my preference to stay as an associate director in Europe on my present salary.

My impression of Princeton is not so good: life is expensive and we'd always have the ^{wish to} effort ~~of~~ ⁱⁿ bisecting ourselves as an effort, the country is lovely and the schools good but the transportation not as good as I thought. Besides with this other possibility now so much more rosy it would be quite ~~rather~~ doubtful even as a temporary measure.

The meetings were good and I have gotten a lot out of them: watching the various members and officers in action and speech. We has a general talk Tuesday night at the Princeton Inn. Then from of course he said this to me later - and meant only the trials of too close contact in a small town

9³⁰ AM Wednesday till 12³⁰ and then 2 PM to 4³⁰ PM and then 7³⁰ - 10⁴⁵ PM.
This AM 9 to 12³⁰ every body looking a little pasty.

The trustees present were

Pres Angell of Yale - sharp mind and tongue but not strong physically and a little sad to see making efforts to be wise.

Pres Hopkins of Dartmouth - big husky swarthy Yankee - horridly and keen

Fredrick Strauss - nervous high strung sensitive Jewish banker

Vernon Kellogg - I thought sick and pathetic - dullly away from both his mind and body. He didn't be at any work.

William Allen White - also much aged, friendly and plain

Mr Secretary" Wilbur - the usual gaunt Western Yankee, forceful + shrewd but not invitingly wise

J Rosenwald - closely attentive, hard headed, original.

J D Greene - one of Morgan's partners, good mind, speaks well, experienced and wise.

D L Edsall - nice deep voice, wise, practical, friendly. (but you know him)

R B Frostick - adroit and alert, thoughtful, friendly and "on to the next subject."

C P Howland - shaggy eyebrows, small, gentle, reflective, self controlled, judicious.

T Arnett - experienced but timid in manner, cautious, routine.

Whipple - a Vermont Yankee of the quiet shrewd and conservative sort

Stokes - talkative, optimistic, full of generalities and generalities, earnest ++ and that's all I can remember. I'm constantly surprised at the friendly informality and easy directness of Americans: its almost exhilaratingly easy to deal with them.

Oh Darlin' wasn't it grand news about Maggie's coming in April. I knew you'd love it and I was that happy to write you if.

President Hopkins told me that Admiral Rignold told him that after two years of ~~the~~ staying on that South Polar Expedition he and his men were sailing away from the ice covered land. He turned to his second in command and said "What have you missed the most in the time we've been here"? The reply was "Temptation".

Oh Bimini Darling - it's much the same with me but it's not so long now - next letter I hope to know exactly.

I love you need you and want you to be Alans.
